INTRODUCTION

Coal is acknowledged to be the dominant commercial energy source of the country contributing as much as 50% of the total domestic commercial energy. Almost 74% of domestic coal production is dedicated to Thermal Power Generation.

In the industrial age that we are living, we all know the energy is an important input for the overall development of the country and thereby in raising the general standard of living of the people. In a democratic country like ours, this is the one of the primary duties of the elected government and the Planning Commission has been actively engaged in fulfilling of this mandate. The total national energy requirement is foreseen to grow rapidly in the coming decades with contribution of coal jumping from the present level of around 530 mt / annum (2009-10) to above 2 billion tones / yr by 2030-31. Looking at the past annual growth rate of 3-4% of the coal industry since nationalization in 1971-73, this means that the growth rate has to be increased to 7-9% range i.e. almost doubled. Thus there is an obvious need to augment the contribution from coal, the only and the major resource, to the energy basket of the country. This indeed is the biggest challenge and hence the theme of the Conference has been chosen as "Coal for Economic Growth". If we look at the short term perspective, the challenges looks even some formidable with growth rate to be jacked up from 5.4% in X plan to 7.6% in XI plan within this plan period.

This additional demand of the coal in the country has to be met by – the public sector coal organizations the private sector which has been allocated substantial number of the new blocks and by imports from abroad either from foreign mining companies or from coal-mines acquired overseas by Indian coal companies. Seeing the stupendous growth of the coal demand, problems of all these three areas would need to be focused on with a view to speed up new developments.

OBJECTIVES

The specific areas of concern are:

- Policy initiatives required for rapid increase of Coal production.
- Delays in statutory/Governmental clearances include Environmental, particularly forest, land etc.
- Issues hampering, new coal block development
- Coal imports bottlenecks – transports logistics/ ports connectivity etc
- Development of Infrastructure - Greenfield coal projects, for coal movement Railways / Roads etc.
- Rapid Coal exploration
- Modern coal technology, clean coal technology, CBM, UGC & Coal to oil.
- Issues on safety and time lines for development of necessary skills including Statutory manpower for coal mines - HR initiatives

The Coal Summit aims to discuss all these issues in depth and present to the new Government decision makers including Minister for Coal; Member (Energy), Planning Commission; Minister for Environment; an Agenda for accelerating the growth of coal sector.
